127. Handwriting – Early Years (aged 5 years and under)

An extract from Seaside by Shirley Hughes

Water's for splashing,
Sand is for play,
A day by the sea
Is the best kind of day.

128. Handwriting – Years 1 and 2 (aged 5-7 years)

An extract from The Lighthouse Keeper's Lunch by Ronda and David Armitage

Every day, Mr Grinling rowed out to the lighthouse, and every day Mrs Grinling cooked him a delicious lunch and sent it to him in a basket on their own cable system. But the greedy seagulls wanted that lunch too, and Mrs Grinling had to use all her cunning to find a way of making sure that the lighthouse keeper got his lunch.

129. Handwriting – Years 3 and 4 (aged 7-9 years)

An extract from Lord Neptune by Judith Nicholls

God Build me a castle,
the young boy cried,
as he tapped his father's knee.
But make it tall
and make it wide,
with a king's throne just for me.

Give me your spade,
the father cried:
let's see what we can do!
We'll make it wide
so it holds the tide,
with a fine throne just for you.

An echo drifted on the wind,
sang deep and wild and free:
Oh you can be king of the castle
but I am lord of the sea.

He dug deep down
in the firm damp sand,
for the tide was falling fast.
The moat was deep,
the ramparts high,
And the turrets tall and vast.

130. Handwriting – Years 5 and 6 (aged 9-11 years)

Farewell to the Old Gang song

I've worked up at the Old Gang
For nigh on thirty years.
I've had me share of sorrow
And I've had me share of tears.
But now up to the Old Gang
I'll never walk no more –
For the mine - it is a-closing
For the price of Spanish ore.

I remember when the ore was priced
At twenty pounds a ton,
And the bosses made their fortunes then,
Each and every one.
While we, we slaved to earn a pay
No higher than before,
Now the mine - it is a-closing
For the price of Spanish ore

And it's farewell to the Old Gang
No more we'll mine for lead.
We're headed down to Lancashire
And the cotton mills instead.

And now me bags are ready, packed;
Me cottage is all bare;
I've sold off all me furniture
Just to pay me fare.
I'll travel 'cross to Askrigg town
And there I'll catch the train,
To take me down to Lancashire,
I'll not be back again!

I started as a washer lad
With fourteen hours of toil.
And I've worked up on the hushes
To clear away the soil,
And I've shivered in the cold, damp pit,
Me body tired and sore.
Now the mine - it is a-closing
For the price of Spanish ore.

131. Handwriting – aged 12 to 16 years.

Coronation Facts

In 950 years since the first recorded coronation, there have only been three monarchs who have not had a coronation. The first, Edward V, was locked in the Tower of London with his younger brother. Missing and presumed to have been murdered by their uncle, Richard III, the princes disappeared before the ceremony.

The next monarch not to receive a coronation was Lady Jane Grey, who inherited the throne from her cousin Edward VI. Named in his will as his legitimate heir, Lady Jane Grey had originally arrived at the Tower of London to prepare for her coronation only to find herself a prisoner of Edward's older sister, Mary. Ruling for just nine days, six months after arriving at the Tower as a queen, Lady Jane Grey was executed for high treason.

The final monarch without a coronation was Edward VIII, who abdicated the throne following a scandalous love affair with Wallis Simpson. His brother, George VI, ascended to the throne in his place and was coronated on the same date that had been planned for Edward's inaugural ceremony.

132. Adult Handwriting. First prize given by Mrs S Restall “to support a dying art”.

The Queen of Hearts by Christina Rossetti

How comes it, Flora, that, whenever we Play cards together, you invariably,
However the pack parts,
Still hold the Queen of Hearts?

I've scanned you with a scrutinizing gaze,
Resolved to fathom these your secret ways:
But, sift them as I will,
Your ways are secret still.

I cut and shuffle; shuffle, cut, again;
But all my cutting, shuffling, proves in vain:
Vain hope, vain forethought, too;
That Queen still falls to you.

I dropped her once, prepense; but, ere the deal
Was dealt, your instinct seemed her loss to feel:
“There should be one card more,”
You said, and searched the floor.

I cheated once: I made a private notch
In Heart-Queen's back, and kept a lynx-eyed watch;
Yet such another back
Deceived me in the pack:

The Queen of Clubs assumed by arts unknown
An imitative dint that seemed my own;
This notch, not of my doing,
Mised me to my ruin.

It baffles me to puzzle out the clew,
Which must be skill, or craft, or luck in you:
Unless, indeed, it be
Natural affinity.
